How are you? The weather in your area must be getting nicer and nicer. It's getting warmer and, of course, humid in Tokyo.

I apologize for not writing sooner, but I would like to take the opportunity today to let you know that we truly appreciate the sincere effort you put into the sale of our house in Bellevue. You certainly lived up to your reputation and did an outstanding job.

Hideo, thank you for the ride to the airport. How's your golf game? Playing a lot, I suppose?

Our household goods, all 250 boxes, arrived a few weeks ago and we are gradually settling down.

My parents extend their warmest regards to both of you.

I need to keep this short and get back to work but thank you once again.
